Geography is the study of places and the relationships between people and their environments. Geographers explore both the physical properties of Earth's surface and the human societies spread across it. They also examine how human culture interacts with the natural environment, and the way that locations and places can have an impact on people. . Geography seeks to understand where things ...

Overall, "Modern geography is an all-encompassing discipline that foremost seeks to understand the Earth and all of its human and natural complexities-- not merely where objects are, but how they have changed and come to be. " "Geography as a discipline can be split broadly into two main sub fields: human geography and physical geography.

why is geography relevant today? | Yahoo Answers

to an extent yes ! geography has influenced history. for some people geography and history maybe two different disciplines but i firmly believe that each and every subject will somehow influence the other one, . they all are interlinked. and when it comes to social studies geography and history go hand in hand.
